County Pulls only Westside WIC Site

WIC, the government funded Women Infant Care program, is to close down its only San Bernardino westside site.

The present site is located in the office of OB/GYN physician Dr. George Small. Small, a well respected physician, is a primary server of low income women and has been cited as the physician who has delivered the most babies in San Bernardino County.

The program to provide formula, and milk products, was placed in his office several years ago along with a public health counselor to reach mothers in low income neighborhoods.

The neighborhoods, in a recent needs assessment was found to have the highest rate of unwed teen mothers of any other zip code in the city.

"The needs of the program have grown and this small site is being moved," said Dr. Pendergast, the County Health Director. Pendergast insists the site is not being closed. The mothers only go to the Small site during their pregnancy.

He told Black Voice News, "We will try to find a larger permanent site."

Passport To College Gets Set to Kick Off

Riverside Community College, the Riverside County Office of Education, six area school districts (Alvord, Corona/Norco, Jurupa, Moreno Valley, Riverside, and Val Verde) will kick-off Passport to College, October 26, 1996 at Riverside Community College's Wheelock Stadium.

Passport to College is a long-term partnership between participating students, their families, individuals, corporations, and service organizations from throughout the region to increase the low college-going rate in the area and make the dream of a college education possible.

The Passport to College effort targets the region's 9,500 fifth graders who make up the Class of 2004. The ultimate goal of the program is to increase the students' college-going rate at least 50% by: Providing information and skills to insure successful graduation from high school and encourage college attendance; Instilling the importance of educational attainment for the future of the community; Developing opportunities for the educational and business communities and the families they serve to work together to plan for the future; Guaranteeing scholarship assistance for two years at Riverside Community College to every student who completes the program.

To learn more about this opportunity, please call or write: Passport to College Campaign Director, Riverside Community College Foundation, 4800 Magnolia Avenue, Riverside, CA 92506-1299 or (909) 222-8626.

Presidential Politics: The Cost of the Black Vote

By William Reed
Black Voice News

Clinton, Dole or Perot, who are you going to vote for? If the polls are right, eight out of every 10 people reading this, and who will cast presidential ballots, will vote for Clinton. And, based on reciprocity, it is clearly Clinton that seems to be willing to give back the most to our communities. While the African-American community, and its voters, get little recognition and reciprocity from the Dole and Perot camps, Clinton has made it a point to target and reach out to our 15 million potential votes.

For example, did you know that of the Clinton/Gore Campaign staff, two of the five Deputy Campaign Managers are African American? Actually, African Americans are Hardy Brown 1st Vice President, National Newspapers Publishers Association and Black Voice News Co-Publisher says "stay the course and vote for Bill Clinton and Al Gore. We have much to gain and more to lose if we don't."

very prominent throughout the campaign and his administration. Alma Brown, widow of Ron Brown, and Atlanta Congressman John Lewis are two African Americans among the eight campaign co-chairs at the top of the Clinton/Gore national structure. Almost 20 percent of the campaign staff are African Americans and 16 of the State Directors for Clinton/Gore are Black. The two Black Deputy Campaign Managers, former Congressman Alan Wheat and Theodore Carter, recently met with African-American journalists at the Washington offices of Jet Magazine to outline what President Clinton has done, and plans to do, in giving back to Blacks.

President Clinton has launched a television campaign aimed at Black voters in which several African Americans say in unison: "We're voting for us!" The ad is airing on the Black Television Network (BET), some Warner Brothers network programs and the "America's Black Forum" syndicated show. A radio version is being broadcast on the African American Urban Radio Network. The 30-second spots boasts that under President Clinton: "Black unemployment is at a 20-year low," "Increased funding for Black colleges" and the "most diverse Cabinet in history." The spots, illustrating that President has "been there" for Blacks, were produced by three African-American companies, UniWorld and Caroline Jones Inc. of New York and Burrelle Communications of Chicago. Black oriented newspapers are in the campaign's marketing mix as well. Almost 200 Black newspaper operations have received over $2 million from the Democratic National Committee (DNC) and Clinton/Gore to stress the things the President has done for the maintenance and uplift of African-Americans and their communities.

In another appeal to Black voters, the president's reelection organization deposited $5 million in minority banks. Saying that, "The President consistently stresses that it is good business to support companies that invest in their communities," Ted Carter pointed out that minority-operated United Bank of Philadelphia; Banco Popular in New York; Citizens Trust Bank in Atlanta and a Texas-based bank serving Hispanics, each received deposits of $1.25 million each as a indication of the President's commitment to urban development and minority-owned businesses.

Carter and Wheat also took pride in pointing out that unemployment among adult Blacks has dropped to one of the lowest rates in 20 years and the incomes of African-American households are up five percent on the President's watch. They showed that fully 14 percent of all administration appointees are Black and the 45 Blacks who serve in the White House is the highest number of us in such capacities in American history.

But, Black disgruntlement with all major parties, and candidates is higher than its been in decades. Black electoral participation in presidential elections is declining after climbing through most of the 1980s. This issue has not escaped the Clinton/Gore Campaign. They and the DNC have issued vouchers to get more of our fold into voting booths. They've had help from the Rev. Jesse Jackson and a widely-heard Black-oriented radio show toward registering Blacks and turning out their vote. Jackson and the cast of "The Tom Joyner Morning Show" have been criss-crossing the country urging Blacks to register, with none-too-subtle implications as to who they should cast their new votes.

Since 1932 and Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal Program, Blacks have been overwhelmingly democratic in party and voting patterns. This election year it appears that the trend will continue. Southern-born President Clinton has shown a high level of comfort with and appreciation for Black culture and the Black community. It is the hope of many in the African-American community that the Clinton trend of "giving back as good as you get," continues for him as well as whomever else sees the light in such a way.

Darden Speaks Against Domestic Violence

By Tiffani Ellison
Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE -- When Christopher Darden came to town it evidently wasn't a joyous occasion among the Black community. From the turn-out it seems that the Black community didn't even care. Chris Darden and Denise Brown came to speak at the Mission Inn in Riverside at a private luncheon out of approximately 100 people (only two of which were Black), not including the press and minister Josh Beckley.

Chris Darden spoke about domestic violence. He began his speech with an excerpt from his book "In Contempt", which talked about how O.J. killed Nicole Brown Simpson and how he followed her to the gate, grabbed her by the neck and slit her throat. "Then that poor little White boy came and he didn't know what was going on. O.J. kept cutting until there was nothing left but a bloody corpse. Then he finished Nicole off," said Darden.

Christopher Darden

Chris Darden asked the question: why can't you see (meaning the community and media) the domestic violence that is so clear to us? The fight isn't over, we have to make them see."

He went on to say, "when a woman is found dead and the husband is charged as the suspect, he is the murderer. One man wrote, Nicole deserved it. Can you imagine that there is someone out there who thinks that? When the man asked what he meant, he said, 'if any man came home and saw his wife doing that, he would be mad.'"

"Women are at risk in this society. We must focus on educating people, to go beyond Warren Moon, saying don't hit your wife. We need to take 20 or 30 minutes of employees time, explain to them what domestic violence is, in churches, bars and work places. Ladies can't do it alone, men need to get involved" he concluded.

He maligned Johnny Cochran and repeatedly referred to O.J. as a murderer. When asked if the Simpson children should be returned, he said the children need to be saved and loved, they can best be cared for by the Browns.

When pressed about O.J. being found not guilty, he inferred he was guilty and unfairly went free.

California Dept. Announces Plan of New Federal Welfare Reform Law

SACRAMENTO -- The California Department of Social Services formally unveiled an Initial Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) State Plan that it has sent to the federal government as a requirement of the new federal welfare reform law (HR 3734). The Plan is aimed at one goal - to draw down additional federal funding available to California under the new federal welfare block grant and to capitalize on part of that savings for expansion of job training programs for welfare recipients.

"I want to emphasize that the submission of this Initial State Plan today is not our new welfare redesign plan" said Eloise Anderson, Director of the California Department of Social Services. "This step should be reviewed solely as an administrative action to generate maximum revenue for California this fiscal year to the tune of about $195 million and to put a large portion of that savings into helping to successfully transition AFDC recipients from welfare-to-work."

California is one of 25 states that have submitted early State Plans to begin receiving federal dollars. The plan for California only includes the minimum items needed to draw down the new federal funding - it contains no new policy decision or changes to existing program requirements. California will continue to operate its welfare programs under the terms of current state law with existing waiver provisions until an overall redesign is developed in conjunction with the Legislature, counties and affected stakeholders.

Editorial

By Hardy Brown
Black Voice News

There has always been, and always will be, much at stake for African Americans on election day and November 5, 1996 is no exception. We can vote for the current administration, Bill Clinton & Al Gore or exchange it for a Newt Gingrich type administration with Bob Dole and Jack Kemp. We can return George Brown Jr to Congress or a Newt (Wilder) Gingrich clone. We can defeat Prop. 209 or do nothing and let it pass. We can elect a Lessmann or maintain a Joe Baca. The choice is ours to make on Tuesday November 5, 1996. We recommend:

U.S. President & Vice President.....Bill Clinton & Al Gore
U.S. Congress (42nd).....George Brown, Jr.
State Assembly.....Joe Baca
Fontana City Council.....Manual Mancha
Bea Watson
U.S. Congress (44th).....Anita Rufus
Ontario City Council.....Rudy Favilla
State Senator (31st).....Gary George
Moreno City Council.....Robert Burks
Moreno School Board.....Bernadette Burks
Jurupa School Board.....John Chavez
Banning City Council.....Roosevelt Williams

Vote YES on:

YES.....Proposition 204
YES.....Proposition 206
YES.....Proposition 214
YES.....Proposition 216
YES.....Proposition 217

In the city of San Bernardino we can agree with Councilman Curlin and defeat measure "E" or join with Senator Bill Leonard and pass the measure. I say we join with Curlin and defeat the Measure because, like Leonard, I don't think those who don't live here should tell us what's best for us. Bill Leonard and some of his Republican cronies have always said the best Government is closest to the people. In other words, Washington shouldn't tell states what to do, so Sacramento shouldn't tell San Bernardino what to do. But Bill Leonard is always changing his mind. He was one of those people who said let's have term Limits, just to get rid of Willie Brown, but then when his term was up, he traded positions with another Republican politician. NO ON MEASURE "E"

While I'm in a NO mode let us tack on a NO to:

NO on Proposition 205 -- No more money for the prison growth industry to lock up Blacks and Hispanics and give Whites employment opportunities.

NO on Proposition 207 -- Poor people don't have to worry about how much money a lawyer charges. They don't have any money anyway. You can't get blood from a turnip.

NO on Proposition 208 -- Limits campaign contributions to $500 for statewide elections. If you believe this to be true, I have a bridge to sell you.

NO on Proposition 209 -- Some Whites claims they are being discriminated against (riiigggghht) while they still own everything. And what they don't have, their wives, mothers, sisters or daughters own, so it's still in their bank accounts.

NO on Proposition 210 -- The Federal minimum wage is enough. No need to be higher in the state.

NO on Proposition 211 -- No need to worry unless you have Securities for your attorney to take.

NO on Proposition 212 -- No need to worry about campaign contributions.

NO on Proposition 213 -- A slick way for insurance companies to get No Fault.

NO on Proposition 215 -- No need to legalize marijuana.

NO on Proposition 218 -- This would tie local government's hands in raising taxes to provide services.

If the typical photograph is worth a thousand words, then those Moneta Sleet, Jr. produced speak volumes. For more than four decades Sleet covered the activities of people of African descent in the United States and around the world. On every assignment he used his keen powers of observation and empathy to produce photographs suffused with a clarity and emotion that moved Black Americans, and White Americans who believed in justice, to action.

Moneta Sleet died at 70 on September 30 in New York. He had just recently returned from covering the Olympics for his longtime employer, Ebony Magazine.

More Than a Thousand Words

That was the latest in a long list of important assignments, from countless trips to Black African nations to photographing prominent African-American celebrities and political leaders, Sleet had undertaken for Ebony since joining in 1955.

But Sleet's greatest achievement can be found in his pictures of America during the years the nonviolent mass-action phase of the Civil Rights Movement re-shaped and reformed America.

Throughout the 1950s and 1960s in the pages of Ebony, Sleet showed White America and the rest of the world a Black America which white supremacists had declared couldn't possibly exist and which the rest of the white world had scarcely noticed: a community full of ordinary human beings who worked and devoted themselves to making life better for their families and their communities.

Today, this might seem a decidedly mundane accomplishment.

But then, when the most demeaning racist stereotypes reinforced the de jure laws and de facto customs which had the force of law that had hemmed Black people into a small corner of American life, Sleet's pictures had a stunning psychological impact: they gave striving African-Americans the visual evidence that there were a lot of Black people like them.

Ebony aptly declared in a January, 1987 profile of him, that Sleet didn't just take pictures. he captured emotions on film. Beginning in late 1955, when Ebony sent him to Montgomery, Alabama to cover a fledgling bus boycott led by a young, unknown minister, Martin Luther King, Jr., that talent was driven by an even greater sense of urgency -- documenting the effort of Black America to hew a place of comfort and opportunity out of American society.

That initial assignment led to an intimate association not only with the Movement as a whole, but the King family, too. The collaboration produced wonderful pictures of the King's family life, dramatic pictures of Blacks and their White allies at work for the Movement, and Sleet's greatest photograph: the one showing five-year-old Bernice King lying across her mother's lap and looking hauntingly at the camera during the funeral service for her father.

The picture, simultaneously conveying Coretta Scott King's almost unbearable sadness, and steely determination to bear the grief and carry on the Movement's work, won for Sleet the 1968 Pulitzer Prize in photography.

As he himself once said of his years covering the Civil Rights Movement in the South, "I wasn't there as an objective reporter. I had something to say and was trying to show one side of it. We didn't have any problem finding the other side."

Sleet's photographs of the movement will endure, and continue to inspire us, because he did capture the courage and dignity and unshakable determination of men, women and children who refused to accept the notion that second-class citizenship was all African-Americans could aspire to in life. The store his pictures told--of not just the Kings and other well-known movement leaders, but of the lesser-known and unknown who braved threats of physical injury and even death to claim their rights for themselves and us--helped countless others who were not on the Movement's front lines decide to not let their aspirations be limited by the inhumanity of others.

To see that, one need only look at one more picture: that of Moneta Sleet, Jr. himself.

Point of View: Today's Generational Rage

By Kofi Michel Guy Williams
Opantiri
Black Voice News

For those who are not familiar with the names Dr. John Henrik Clarke, Dr. John G. Jackson, and Dr. Chancellor Williams, they dwell among the pantheon of Elder Statesmen (as brother Yemi Toure in Atlanta calls them) who dedicated their lives to the reconstruction of the history of Black people throughout the African Diaspora. While Drs. Jackson and Williams have recently joined the ancestors, Dr. Clarke, at 80-plus years of age, continues to labor on our behalf. Their writings are must reading for anyone who would claim to be knowledgeable about our history.

The last three times I have heard Dr. John Henrik Clarke speak, he has voiced what I perceived to be an anger about the collective failure of American-Africans to move in a committed fashion towards the liberation of ourselves as well as all African people around the globe. It is my understanding that similar sentiments were voiced by Drs. Jackson and Williams in their twilight years.

On the flip side of this coin is the commentary about the hostility manifested among our youth. While it does get targeted at non-Blacks, their rage most frequently explodes in American-African communities all across the land.

We witness its displays on a daily basis. On the repugnant end of the spectrum, we all too frequently encounter young children and teen-agers habitually speaking disrespectfully, even crudely, to peers, strangers, and adults. On the horrific end of the spectrum, we read about children, not yet teenagers, engaged in acts of murder and mayhem, literally. Even a single one of our youth guided by the "gangsta" ethos is tragic.

If it is true that the success or failure of a society can be gauged by the condition of its youth and elderly, because they are the most vulnerable groups in the society, then it would seem that we, as a people, have been deaf to some urgent exhortations.

When enlightened elders express disgust at our lack of will and commitment to our liberation as a people, and when our young people so frequently display anti-social, self-negating, and destructive speech and behavior, we had better quit adopting defensive postures and start listening to what is being said to us as a people.

A more than superficial understanding of the depth and breadth of our history informs the individual that something is greatly amiss in spite of our collective and individual accomplishments in America. One realizes that, as unsettling as the truth is, we still are not a self-determining people, that our individual and collective lives are too frequently circumscribed by the whims, beliefs, perspectives, and activities of another people. In short, we are a community that yet remains shattered by White supremacy.

Thankfully, our history also tells us that there are solutions to our woes: our own collective, informed, committed, organized, and sustained sacrifice and effort. These energies, when supported by a firm foundation of self-knowledge, are the tools required to effect the transformation of the world's Africans into a self-defining, self-sufficient, and self-determining people. Our history tells us also that no other people in the world can or will do this for us -- the task falls fully on our shoulders.

Our Elder Statesmen and our children are warning us. No good can come to us as a people if we continue to ignore them with our persistent collective refusal to take our destiny as a people into our own hands.

Fujisaki Will Not Buck Status Quo on Matters of Race

By Dennis Schatzman
Black Voice News

When most of mainstream America is against him, the last thing O.J. Simpson needs is a jurist who will ignore the rule of law in favor of appeasing the status quo on sensitive, yet critical, matters of race. Unfortunately for Simpson, the judge who will oversee the latest "murder" case against the pro football Hall of Famer is just such a person.

Los Angeles County Superior Court Judge Hiroshi Fujisaki is a 60-year-old Los Angeleno who was once housed in a Japanese-American internment camp during World War II. That's where his sensitivity towards racism and discrimination apparently stops. That was then; this is now. Fujisaki is now "one of the boys." Or so he thinks. His recent rulings on racial matters suggest that the jurist will not allow certain testimony and evidence that points to racial motivation on the part of the Los Angeles Police Department detectives that raise questions about whether Simpson might have been framed. Yet Fujisaki is certain to allow the plaintiffs suing Simpson in the civil "wrongful death" case to tee off on him at will.

Simpson, who was exonerated on double murder charges that he killed his estranged wife and her friend, is now being sued by the families of Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Lyle Goldman.

Aiding the plaintiffs in this case, which was rushed to court in record time, has been the mainstream news media, a horde of law professors and the influential talk show industry who have nearly all portrayed Simpson as a person who got away with murder and, therefore, must be punished.

In order to carry out this mission, the proper court had to be selected, along with the proper judge. Santa Monica, California is just such a venue; Hiroshi Fujisaki is just such a jurist.

Based on past history, here is what Fujisaki will do for the plaintiffs. He will rule against the admittance of any testimony or evidence pointing to the taped confession of retired Detective Mark Fuhrman who vowed that he would plant evidence on Black men he caught in the company of White women.

This will be a major coup for the plaintiffs since it was Fuhrman who "found" the bloody glove behind a bungalow on Simpson's estate after first testifying that he had seen "them" (meaning a pair of gloves) at the scene of the murder two miles away on Bundy Drive where Nicole lived. That revelation, coupled with the fact that Detective Philip Vannatter, also retired, carried Simpson's blood around with him longer than Police regulations say he should have, could have had as much impact on the civil trial as is did in the criminal trial.

But issues that suggest that racial animus could have played a role in the skewering of Simpson will not be allowed to see the light of day in a Fujisaki courtroom. He never has allowed it.

Consider the case, Wilson v. J. Paul Getty Museum, J. Paul Getty Trust et. al. (1990). The plaintiff, Glenna Wilson, a deeply religious security guard with supervising and training duties, was placed on probation and her career subsequently ruined by the Getty interests for "unsatisfactory professional conduct" shortly after she had complained that she had been the subject of "racial slurs."

Even though Wilson's attorneys cited a litany of cases supporting the admission of racist statements, Fujisaki ruled that the slurs could not be introduced to the all-White jury because the evidence tended to be "prejudicial" against the defendant. Yet he allowed the defense to introduce "deliberately false statements" from Wilson's subordinates claiming that she had made sexual advances towards them.

In Santa Monica, where the jury will likely be predominantly White, the handcuffing of Simpson's attorneys on the issue of racial animus will be crucial. And I suspect that's just the way the mainstream media, law professors Stan Goldman (Loyola), Paul Rothstein (Georgetown), talk show hosts Geraldo Rivera, Charles Grodin, Gloria Allred and, I dare say, Fujisaki wants it.

Mr. Schatzman, a former district court judge in Pittsburgh, Pa., is a legal affairs journalist based in Los Angeles. He is co-author of "The Simpson Case in Black and White."

Congressman George Brown Supported by Community

Hardy Brown, Co-publisher greets Congressman George Brown, and HUD Secretary Henry Cisneros.

Black Voice News

ONTARIO -- A dinner was held recently for Congressman George E. Brown, Jr., who is running for reelection. At the event, Congressman Brown said that he wanted to improve the community. He talked about how he enjoyed visiting the different churches in the area and that it helps him better understand different groups of people. Loveland Church, in particular, was one such church he visited. Brown said, "Pastor Chuck Singleton preached a sermon on youth and how the elders need to teach the younger, also how they need to give back to the community."

He mentioned how people think he is too old to stay in Congress and how his opponent says he should stop running. He doesn't think so.

Secretary of Housing and Urban Development and Brown's close friend, Henry G. Cisneros spoke about Congressman George Brown and a little of himself saying that, "I was born in San Antonio, Texas. I was the first mayor (Hispanic) of San Antonio." He mentioned how people have a difficult time pronouncing his name and recollected on how one lady pronounced it "cheese nachos".

Of Congressman Brown, he says, "George Brown is a perfect candidate and should be re-elected, because of how he treats people, what people think of him, and what he has done in and for the community."

Brown served in the House of Representatives, the Congressional District of L.A., a member of the Science Committee from 1991-94 member since 1965, served on the Committee of Agriculture since 1973.

Representative Brown is the from 1991 through 1994 and has been a member of the committee since 1965. During the past 30 years he has pursued a wide range of interests with an emphasis on science and technology policy, alternative energy development, space policy and environmental protection. His leadership led to the creation of the Office of Technology Assessment (OTA) in 1972 and the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy in 1976.

At the close of the evening, Congressman Brown was presented an award by Peace Builders for his outstanding work as a United States Congressman.

Brown is married to Marta Macias and they reside in San Bernardino. Congressman Brown and Mrs. Brown, both of whom have been married previously, take pride in a total of six children, eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Our Bodies

Ernest Levister, M.D.

Infections of the prostate can and do occur resulting in acute or chronic inflammation of the prostate gland.

The offending organism, be it bacterial, viral, parasitic or fungal access the prostate gland via one of the following four ways: 1) ascent from the urethra, the tube that connects the bladder to the outside world via the penis; 2) reflux of infected urine into the prostatic ducts that empty into the posterior urethra; 3) direct extension from the rectum, and 4) via the blood stream. Yes, gonococcal, chlamydia and Trichomonas Vaginalis do infect the prostate gland.

Acute infections will usually result in pain in the area between the penis and rectum and/or the back above the rectum. The individual may have difficulty in urinating or symptoms of cystitis, fever and a tender swollen prostate. The urine is usually abnormal with antibiotics being the treatment of choice.

Males with chronic infection may have a history of acute infection. The male may present with irritating symptoms when urinating, a nagging discomfort in the pelvic area with a normal or boggy prostate. Unless the individual has a concomitant bladder infection the urinalysis may be normal. Prostatic massage may show inflammatory cells and appropriate culture may be rewarding allowing for focus treatment.

Non-specific prostatitis, a diagnosis arrived at by exclusion, is the most common form and a therapeutic trial of antibiotics is appropriate.

Patients may have symptoms of chronic prostatitis and will not respond to treatment. In these cases a prostatic biopsy may be rewarding and reveal an infection with organisms as a function of geographic location such as coccidioidomycosis in Southern California.

Remember, an autopsy 70% of men over 50 have inflammatory changes in the prostate gland.

Talk it over with your personal physician and keep an eye out next week for what all men look forward to, ENLARGEMENT OF THE PROSTATE GLAND.

It's a Male Thing

Family Talks

Joseph Bailey, II M.D.

At first children get their knowledge of dogs (or whatever) by observation and experience. Hence, all children learn inductively. Induction continues as they compare the ideas they gained in order to form a mental picture of their own dog. From seeing a number of different kinds of dogs, they gradually form the idea "dog." This idea does not mean merely their dog, but any dog -- a generic dog. The process of going from individual mental pictures gained through observation to another level where there is the formation of definitions, classifications, rules and mental concepts is called the Inductive Method.

By induction, a number of related facts are gathered and put under a general law or truth

Inductive Reasoning

-- a characteristic of the scientific method. For instance, from the fact that heat expands iron, gold, and platinum, the general conclusion is that heat expands all metals. This method of instruction is seen on "Mr. Wizard," a scientific TV program for kids. Induction is useful to teach in the primary grades and in beginning the study of most new subjects. But, when we get to the point that we can determine what rules, definitions or principles to apply to the problem at hand, chances are that the deductive method is more appropriate. It is the job of the inductive thinking to establish a correct main statement for syllogisms used in deduction.

Induction is also the method employed in scientific discovery. This came about in the 14th century for two reasons. First, whereas, Deduction was looking at a problem from the top down (i.e. as in pouring general principles into a funnel and watching conclusions "drop" out), thinkers figured that a problem could also be viewed from the bottom up. In other words, pouring in particular data in the narrow end of the funnel and noting the general principles that come out of the wide part of the funnel would be induction. For example, I induce that since Titan, my toy dog, has a massive front, heavy mane and tapering hind quarters similar to that of a miniature lion, these accumulated facts make him a Pekingese kind of dog.

Second, tired of being told what was "true" by some authority, people demanded laboratory proof. Proof required that the scientific method and Induction work as a check and balance on each other in order to give a highly general or fundamental principle. Such a correct principle could then be properly used as the main statement for the Syllogism of deductive reasoning. From that point on deduction could show what was logically true.

New Director Appointed to UCR's Women's Center

Adrienne Sims, an educator who has served as a student services officer at several Southern California universities and colleges has been appointed director of the University of California, Riverside's Women's Resource Center.

Sims succeeds Barbara Gardner, who recently retired after 15 years in the position, according to John Azzaretto, interim vice chancellor of student services and enrollment.

"We look forward to Dr. Sims' leadership and feel that the breadth of her experiences, coupled with her enthusiasm and knowledge of college women's issues, will enable her to enhance the center's efforts and image," Azzaretto said.

Adrienne Sims

The Women's Resource Center offers programs and services focusing on women's issues and provides counseling and referral support, as well as information on the campus' escort service, rape prevention education and women's empowerment groups. During the year, the center presents workshops, speakers, films and activities that address women's issues.

"I was drawn here because the campus has an outstanding reputation," said Sims, who began her new duties Sept. 30. "Working with the Women's Resource Center gives me a chance to promulgate and address women's concerns for the good of the university and community."

She began her career as an English as a Second Language teacher for Los Angeles Unified School District and moved on to become regional admissions coordinator for the University of Phoenix and later assistant dean of admissions at the University of Redlands.

Sims earned a bachelor of arts degree in English from UC Irvine in 1974, a master's degree in counseling in 1978 from CSU Los Angeles and a doctorate of education in institutional management in 1987 from Pepperdine University.

At Coors, Jackson recently was named Area Vice President of the Year, as a result of top regional 1995 sales revenues. Through exemplary business leadership, his Southwest staff at 30 earned the Region of the Year Award based on a consolidation of sales volume, share of market, and overall profitability.

Traditional yet revolutionary, Coors Brewing Company was ranked No. 2 in Business Ethics Magazine's "The Best 100 Corporate Citizens" in the May/June 1996 issue. Coors was recognized for its corporate-wide ethics program and strong philosophy that consistently demonstrates sensitivity for the careers of minorities, gay men and lesbians, and also for the company's commitment to social responsibility and philanthropic causes.

A prominent African American business and civic leader, Jackson was honored for his dedicated support of the Cal Pac Scholarship Fund, with fund-raising efforts exceeding

Minorities Rarely Referred to As Leaders in Media Reports

PORTLAND, ORE. -- In news stories and commentaries, the term leader predominantly applied to white males and those in top political and military positions. This is a key finding from, Who Leads?, a study released in August by Camahan, Smith & Gunter, Inc. (CSG), a Portland, Ore., firm that specializes in leadership development.

"We were dismayed by the research findings, which are similar to the results of a study we commissioned in 1994," says CSG President Karen Camahan. "What we are seeing is that although minorities and women are increasingly assuming leadership roles, the official image of leadership as portrayed in the media has not caught up with changing realities."

The study reviewed about 1,000 articles from six general-interest newspapers and three special-interest business magazines. Reviewers flagged articles and commentaries containing the terms lead, leader and leadership.

The publications included: all April 1996 issues of The Atlanta Journal-Constitution, Los Angeles Times, The New York Times, The (Portland) Oregonian, The Seattle Times, and St. Louis Post-Dispatch; all issues of Black Enterprise, Harvard Business Review and Inc., from May 1995 to April 1996.

Diversity was limited. Ninety-nine percent of the political leader references identified were to males; 83 percent to white males. There were no female leaders mentioned in any war/mayhem stories. Of miscellaneous leader stories, only 18 percent were to female leaders.

The racial and ethnic breakdown was better in articles addressing business, religion, arts, academia and the like. Twenty percent of the leader references were to people of color. Of the political stories, however, only 13 percent of the leader references were to people of color (primarily African American, Asian and Asian American.) In war/mayhem stories, nine percent were to people of color.

Most often, the term leader was merely used as a passing reference, usually indicating job position. When included, leadership attributes most commonly ascribed to the leaders were: Vision, experience, education, accomplishment, action, risk taker, creativity, trusting/trustworthy, intelligence, and popularity. Minorities who were described in those terms were often not actually called leaders.

An example of the limited application of the terms leader and leadership is the coverage of U.S. Secretary of Commerce Ron Brown's death. Brown was described in numerous articles, commentaries and editorials as a man with strong skills and wideranging influence. He was lauded as a pioneer, a role model, a mentor, a risk taker, a doer, yet seldom as a leader.

"Reference to leaders and leadership is common in everyday language, yet what is meant by these terms is not clear," says Camahan. "To limit leadership to a particular level of employment or to particular individuals by virtue of their race or gender is to miss out on the contributions of many."

In making this report publicly available, CSG hopes to stimulate discussion about leadership. Says Camahan, "Knowing who leads now and having a clearer understanding of what is needed and wanted in leaders will help us develop and select the leaders of the future."

The report was prepared by the Virginia based research and education firm, Unabridged Communications, which uses the media to study cultural behavior and attitudes. Copies are available from Camahan, Smith & Gunter, Inc. through their website address: <http://members.aol.com/breakthru/leadership.html> or by calling 503/244-6701.

2,000 Attend Dr. Rev. LeMar Foster, Sr. Funeral

Pall Bearers and family prepare for the doves signifying the release of Dr. Foster's spirit.

By Cheryl Brown
Black Voice News

Family of Dr. LeMar Foster.

Ministers from all over California and North Carolina attended the services.

Dr. Hardwick and pastors from other Baptist congregations.

Supervisor Jerry Eaves and Mayor Tom Minor spoke at the funeral.

Over 2,000 people attended the home going services for Rev. Dr. LeMar Foster, the late pastor of New Hope Baptist Church. He laid in state for two days. Ministers, politicians, community leaders, friends and his members gave testimony after testimony of his good works and of his dedication to the Gospel of Jesus Christ. His pulpit chair draped in black with white flowers signified the high respect the church held for him.

The homegoing service went from a light remembrance to teary eyed heavy mourning. The church was very emotional when Judy Arnold brought the house down with the song "Faith".

Rev. Dr. Joe B. Hardwick, President of the Western Baptist State Convention preached the homegoing service.

Hardwick said we should be celebrating and painted a picture of Before and After. "We can't stand before God without going through a transition." He said Dr. Foster is with God in heaven. "Dr. Foster's name is in the book because he is saved. His works make him eligible for the "Crown of Life."

All overflow areas of the church were filled they watched the service from a remote video camera and some people left because they couldn't find a seat.

The politicians on hand for political condolences were Congressman George Brown, Senator Reuben Ayala, Supervisor Jerry Eaves, Mayor Tom Minor, Councilwoman Betty Anderson and Danny Tillman, S.B. School Board member.

It was Congressman George Brown who with sincere teary eyes recounted the days Foster spent with Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr and said it was because of him that he could proudly boast of his 5 African American

Dr. Foster's casket followed by the family and the congregation was then taken to the parking lot where his soul was set free by the releasing of the beautiful white doves, which circled and flew in formation. His remains were then taken to Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Charlotte, N.C. following a final funeral service in his home town. His saying "I have not come to worry anybody's patience, It is my job to trouble somebody's mind" will forever live in the minds of those who knew and loved one of God's chosen men.

Congressman George Brown spoke at the funeral.

FOR PASTORS ONLY

As past president of three of our local clergy organizations, I know how difficult it has been to get an automobile dealership to work with our church members in providing them a full range of financial services and products that will meet and fulfill their transportation needs. Finally, we have succeeded! When you refer your member to CARS USA at the Riverside Mitsubishi dealership, they won't have to hear foul language, see dirty girlie pictures, or fan smoke from their faces, and they won't have to sit in some small room for hours while financial games are being played. Moreover, even if your member has past credit problems, they will be treated with respect dignity, and Christian love. When you walk into a CARS USA dealership, you can expect the "unusual," and witness sales professions that sit down with customers and work out programs and methods to get "good people" with "bad credit" financed. They put people into automobiles that have been turned down by others. These people even pray with your referral for divine guidance in making the right purchase. Yes, it's taken us years to get a dealer that would work with us in this manner, but now we have one! Pastor, it would almost be sinful to send your member to any other place. They'll receive special attention and benefits when referred by their pastor. They take your member's application right over the phone, and they can actually have their car ready when they arrive. This dealer is selling Mitsubishi cars, but they sell you, or your member, any car, any make or model. Remember the founding principles and senior management team for CARS USA (Al Washington, David Watt, and Jerry Greco) designed the dealership to be customer friendly in a Christian environment. You won't get "ripped off!" Let's show our community how we Christians like and deserve to be treated. See you there!

Questions & Answers

Dr. Reginald Woods

QUESTION: Dear Pastor Woods; According to 1st Corinthians 12, there is a list of nine spiritual gifts that the Corinthian church operated in. Do these gifts operate today in churches? If so how come we never see them?

Paul J., Fontana, CA

ANSWER: 1st Corinthians 12 lists nine gifts in verses 8

Do Spiritual Gifts Still Exist?

through 10: the word of wisdom, the word of knowledge, faith, the gifts of healing, the working of miracles, prophecy, discerning of spirits, divers kinds of tongues and the interpretation of tongues. The Apostle Paul made an interesting statement in verse 1: "Now concerning spiritual gifts brethren, I would not have you ignorant." There is a tremendous amount of ignorance in the church world on the subject of spiritual gifts. The number one reason why most churches do not allow the gifts of the Spirit to flow is because of ignorance and lack of faith. There is no place in the Bible that declares that spiritual gifts are no longer to operate in our churches. To say that spiritual gifts no longer exist or are needed is a theological supposition. The gifts are to operate in our churches to edify the

Trojans outlast Arizona, undefeated ASU up next

USC's 14-7 victory over Arizona, ensures showdown with ASU will have major Rose Bowl implications.

By LELAND STEIN III
BVN Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13 - Doing just enough to get the job accomplished - that was the USC Trojans at the Coliseum verses the University of Arizona.

Survive is more like what the Trojans did before 51,088 restless fans in earning a 14-7 win over the Wildcats.

The injury depleted Trojan (4-2 overall, 2-1 Pac-10) offensive line has taken a beating and in this game it was no different. Quarterback Brad Otton was sacked seven times by Arizona (3-3, 1-2) and slammed to the turf many more times after successful and incomplete pass attempts. All this came on the heels of six sacks last week by Cal.

Still the offensive line held together good enough to control the ball 35 minutes, 56 seconds, compared to Arizona's 24:04.

In fact, led by a rejuvenated offensive line, LaVale Woods blasted out 33 yards in six carries, thereby controlling the ball for the games final 3 minutes, 22 seconds, not providing Arizona with one final chance to tie the Trojans.

"Creating first downs and running out the clock to win the game . . . it's what an offensive line lives for," said USC offensive line coach Mike Barry. "I saw some improvement, and, I was really happy we ran well on that last series of the game."

Added tackle Rome Douglas: "This was a big win . . . we need every game from here on out. We as an offensive line have to continue to step it up and do better. We kind of came out slow in this one, because of all the blitzes they were throwing at us. But, we tightened it up when we had too."

Although the total offensive yardage between the two teams wasn't much, 297 for USC and 247 for Arizona, the Trojans did hold the Wildcats to 13 first downs.

The return of starters Sammy Knight, Darrell Russell and Brian Kelly from one-game suspensions helped solidify the defense.

Knight, the former Rubidoux High star and now USC's roving linebacker, led the team in tackles with 10, and middle linebacker and ex-Riverside North star Chris Claiborne chipped in with nine.

"We're a very good defensive team," said USC Coach John Robinson. "We had to play solid defensive, fight to win and rely on our hearts. It's important to win games like this."

Said Russell: "I feel really good to be back. It's no question we have our backs against the wall, but with the heart on this team and defense, I think we can do it. Just like today, play it hard and one at a time."

Added Knight: "I think the defense played pretty well today. We are a team and if the offense is not playing as well as they would like, it's upon the defense to step up and make some plays that'll win us a ball game."

In a game that turned into a defensive struggle, it was appropriate that one of the plays of the game was provided by the defense.

With Arizona on the move around mid-field, Wildcat quarterback Brady Batten had scrambled for 11-yards, but at the end of the run was met by safety Grant Pearsall and Knight, who supplied a hard . . . very hard finishing touch.

"Grant had him by the legs and I came from the side . . . I don't think he saw me," Knight said. "We both hit him at the same time and the ball came out (Matt Keneley recovered for USC) . . . I saw his head snap back. I was a little scared for him at first, but I saw him get up and I was happy he did."

Now it's on to Arizona State for what could amount to a game for all the marbles. With one conference loss (to Cal), USC can't afford any let downs. A win at ASU against the undefeated Sun-devils will go a long way in determining the direction of this team, and if they are as good as they say and many thought they could be.

"Arizona State didn't lose today, so we have to go in there and knock them off so we can go to the Rose Bowl," said R.J. Soward the former Fontana High star receiver. "We have to take one game at a time, stay focused, be strong and don't fall off the course."

UCLA "Snake" bitten by ASU

UCLA mistakes in fourth quarter, fuels ASU's come from behind 42-34 win.

By LELAND STEIN III
BVN Sports Editor

PASADENA, Oct. 13 - Arizona State University are the giant killers of the "Big Red Machine" (Nebraska) and all that goes with it - national acclaim and a lofty No. 4 national ranking.

Along comes the gummy UCLA Bruins of 1996 to challenge ASU and Coach Bruce Snyder's Sun Devils who have put together one of college football's biggest upsets and are currently sporting a 6-0 overall record, and a 3-0 Pac-10 mark as well.

But oh no . . . the upstart Bruins (2-3, 11) before a large Rose Bowl crowd of 66, 107, were in an upsetting mood.

UCLA started fast and was very focused and intense. They scored on their first possession, moving 65 yards in nine plays. The Bruins continued their momentum swing taking a 17 point lead (38-14) into halftime.

But the wheels came off the Bruin steamroller, as two consecutive fourth quarter fumbles gave ASU all the energy and opportunity they needed to score 21 points in the last quarter and earn a 42-34 victory.

"This is one game we should have won," said UCLA defensive lineman Weldon Forde. "We did almost everything right for three quarters, but the game is played over four quarters. I could feel this win in hand . . . I'm stunned."

Snake bitten by a gutsy quarterback, Jake "Snake" Plummer, who accounted for four touchdowns, three passing and one on a trick halfback pass to the quarterback, the Bruins were left with a pain deep in their stomachs.

The statistics show that the Bruins have good reason to be sick. They had more first downs, total yards, passing yards and generally played one of their better offensive games of the season . . . but, just as it happened last year when ASU came back from a 17 point deficit to win, they did it again following UCLA's crucial turnovers.

"We have a target painted on our chest every since we beat Nebraska . . . people come extra ready to beat us," said defensive back Marcus Soward the former Rialto Eisenhower star. "We know every game is going to be like this, teams come out sky high."

"I think we can make it back here (Rose Bowl Game). We want to play in the Rose Bowl one more time. We have the heart, skilled players, great coaches . . . I think we are going to go all the way."

Fontana 24, Moreno Valley Valley View 6

By LELAND STEIN III
BVN Sports Editor

MORENO VALLEY, Oct. 11 - This contest between two of the better teams in the Inland Empire proved that a good Division 1 team probably will beat a good Division 4 team.

With talented players on both Moreno Valley's Valley View and Fontana teams proved to be a key, as the Steelers wore down the Eagles scoring 17 second half points en route to a 24-6 victory.

Behind the running of All-California Interscholastic Federation back Art Gipson's 166 yards and three touchdowns, the Steelers dominated the ground game."my line was blocking well, opening up some great holes for me," Gipson said. "We practiced hard and it paid off at game time. I think this team is pretty solid and can compete with anyone."

Added receiver and defensive back Thomas Howard: "We are a very disciplined team that plays well and tries to keep the mistakes out of what we are trying to do in a game. If we continue to improve, I think we can go deep into the CIF Playoffs."

As always, defense is still a strong point on the Steelers team. They held Valley View to eight first downs and only 136 yards rushing. The Eagles leading rusher, Robert Wade, was held to 27 yards.

The Eagles avoided a shutout when quarterback Reggie Lewis threw a 90-yard touchdown pass to Wade with only 23 seconds remaining in the contest.

BVN's BOOK OF THE WEEK

Michael H. Cottman & Deborah Willis

The Million Man March of last October 16th was a monumental event not only because of its sheer size, but due to the dramatic impact it had and continues to have on African-American communities around the country. In honor of the men and their families who have kept the spirit and momentum of the March alive, Crown Trade Paperbacks is proud to publish The Family of Black America by Michael H. Cottman and Deborah Willis, a photographic historical tribute to Black family life in America from 1920 to the present day.

With The Family of Black America, Cottman and Willis, authors of Million Man March, have created a community photo album. Cottman, a Pulitzer Prize winning journalist, provides "word portraits" of men and families of the March who were inspired to action within their own communities. To complement the text, Willis, curator of exhibitions for the Smithsonian's Center for African-American History and Culture, compiled dozens of memorable images from prior generations who laid the groundwork that made the March possible to children who will carry the spirit of the March into the future.

Displaying a contemporary lyrical technique steeped in the great jazz tradition, Alfonzo Blackwell wields his saxophone like Shakespeare wielded words. On his sophomore Street Life/All American Music album Alfonzo Blackwell, the New York jazzman applies his lilting horn lines to a diverse collection of songs, including interpretations of popular tunes by Boyz II Men & Mariah Carey, R. Kelly, Seal and Quincy Jones. These covers are complemented by Alfonzo's original compositions, as well as a cut written and produced by renowned jazz/rock drummer Omar Hakim. Co-produced by Alfonzo with Preston Glass (Kenny G, George Benson), Alfonzo Blackwell reveals an artist in full bloom. The album even includes a special bonus track, "Baywatch Nights Theme: The Nights Will Never

Be The Same."

Alfonzo burst onto the music scene with his 1995 debut album, "Let's Imagine ...". Running the gamut from fusion to r&b balladry and hardcore funk, the album became a Top 15 hit on Billboard magazine's Contemporary Jazz Albums chart and established Alfonzo as a unique, emotive voice in the modern jazz genre. More harmonically complex than its predecessor and possessing a warmth and passion essential to great music, Alfonzo Blackwell is the logical progression.

As the album's co-producer, arranger and performer, Alfonzo indulged his wildest musical fantasies and in the process, created a jazz record that defies categorization. Alfonzo Blackwell is the result of the artist's inspired combination of modern pop interpretations with vintage classics and original songs. By championing concise arrangements, unaffected production and straightforward improvisation, Alfonzo has created a jazz album for the people.

"I've always wanted to do a project where I had creative control, but I had to wait for the right opportunity," Alfonzo explains. "That opportunity presented itself with this record. It's the most honest project I've ever worked on."

From the opening strains of the original tune "Hermina," and his interpretation of "Love is the Message," it becomes clear that Alfonzo is pushing toward new heights. "Hermina" is a gorgeous ballad composed for Alfonzo's toughest critic—his mother. "I was nervous when I brought her the song because I didn't want her to just like it—she really had to feel it," Alfonzo says.

"Love is the Message" commences with cascading saxophone harmonies that segue into a funky interpretation of the MFSB classic. "I think my version is interesting because the original is a dance song," Alfonzo explains. "I play it in a jazz style, but with strong dance inflections. I had fun putting a different spin on it."

Alfonzo relishes the chance to place his unique "spin" on beloved pop tunes, as evidenced by other interpretations featured on Alfonzo Blackwell. He takes a reverent approach toward the Boyz II Men/Mariah Carey tune, "One Sweet Day," playing bittersweet solos that emphasize the song's elegiac theme. His soulful improvisations on Seal's "Kiss From A Rose" and R. Kelly's "Down Low" possess a churchly, spiritual grace.

Elsewhere on the album Alfonzo displays his deeply sewn jazz roots. He serves up a soulful version of George Benson's "Breezin'," and turns in a lively sax jam next to Omar Hakim's funky, freestyle backbeat on "Keep It Rite There," a track penned and produced by the acclaimed jazz drummer. Alfonzo takes a gossamer jazz-pop approach on "Baywatch Nights Theme: The Nights Will Never Be The Same" (fans can see Alfonzo performing the song during the closing credits of the show). There's also a revelational cover of the Quincy Jones standard, "Killer Joe," featuring Alfonzo and his band taking fiery solo turns.

"I'm really into traditional jazz and I love the original version of the song, but at the same time I wanted to do a different arrangement," Alfonzo says. "So we open in a straight bebop fashion then bring up the tempo midway. People don't expect that change in the rhythm, which is good."

Born and raised in New York, Alfonzo grew up on jazz and r&b records by bebop giants John Coltrane, Miles Davis and Lester Young, as well as jazz-influenced r&b acts such as Marvin Gaye and MFSB. Picking up the saxophone at age 11, he immediately demonstrated astounding musical talent as a student at the High School of Performing Arts in Manhattan.

Having completed his formal education at Queens College and Five Towns College of Music, Alfonzo began performing in clubs around New York, eventually winning a Thursday night residency at the now-defunct Sweetwater's. His Street Life/All American Music debut album, Let's Imagine ... struck an immediate chord with its inviting arrangements and performances.

Now with the release of his new album the young saxophonist ups the melodic ante. Alfonzo Blackwell is more diverse than its predecessor, yet its charms are apparent to music lovers of every stripe. All in all, the disc offers a revealing glimpse into the alluring musical world of Alfonzo Blackwell. "My only goal is to play great music, and on this album we give the full range of emotions," the saxophonist says. Mission accomplished.

Stage Set for Final Choir Competition at Gospelfest

Pat Harper, local McDonald's franchisee (r), congratulates Sherdale Smith, director of Perris Christian Singers, once again selected as a finalist to perform at McDonald's Gospelfest presented by Disneyland -- Southern California's premier gospel extravaganza.

LOS ANGELES -- Six amateur gospel choirs, from communities and churches throughout Southern California, will lead an expected capacity crowd through a foot-stomping, hand-clapping musical experience at the Shrine Civic Auditorium when they compete in the final event of McDonald's Gospelfest presented by Disneyland -- the Southland's premier gospel extravaganza--on Saturday, November 2.

Sponsored by the McDonald's Operators' Association of Southern California (MOASC) and presented by Disneyland, McDonald's Gospelfest is dedicated to bringing together Southern California's best amateur gospel groups and choirs in a friendly competition to raise funds for community and educational organizations. Proceeds from the fund-raising concert will benefit Challengers Boys and Girls Club of South Central Los Angeles, which provides educational, cultural, leadership, social, and recreational programs for inner-city youngsters. To date, the program has raised and donated more than $200,000.

Narrowed down from a field of competing choirs from communities throughout Southern California, the six finalists are busy rehearsing for the grand finale. Two choirs hail from Los Angeles, the South Central-based Angelic Voices Choir, consisting of 30 children ages five through twelve, and L.A. Voices of Watts, which features 25 members and boasts a 2-year history of bringing joy to the community through their musical appearances at workshops, concerts and plays. The community of Long Beach will be represented by David Starr Jordan High School International Choir of Long Beach, a 30-member student choir which strives to promote a positive image of their school by performing throughout the community at events such as this fund-raising concert. Runner-up in the 1993 competition, Perris Christian Singers, is a 35-member choir from Riverside County performing on the Gospelfest stage for a fourth time. San Bernardino County's Radio Angelic Community Missionary Baptist Church Choir of Redlands consists of 30 members and has performed throughout the United States at various gospel concerts. And, finally, Pasadena City College Gospel Choir, a 45-member student choir which has performed at events throughout Southern California including the National Candlelight Vigil to Stop the Violence and the Cerebral Palsy Telethon.

McDonald's Gospelfest presented by Disneyland begins at 7:30 p.m. at the Shrine Civic Auditorium, 649 W. Jefferson Blvd., Los Angeles. This year's event will be co-hosted by KCAL-TV's Pat Harvey and KCBS-TV's Larry Carroll. Admission prices are $12, $18, and $22 and tickets are now available from TicketMaster through November 2 (tickets can also be purchased from the Shrine Civic Auditorium box office on event day). For ticket and event information, call 213/480-3232.

County Pulls Wic From Black Community

Small says he doesn't mind giving up the government program. "No problem. I'll give the site up, however, there are adequate permanent sites on the westside. Why should a community of people who need the services have to find transportation or walk that distance get services?" said Small.

Pendergast says public transportation is readily available. "We want sites which are easily accessible by most people and for more time than the few months they are pregnant. The change will affect a small number of people in a relatively minor way," he said.

Small is in disagreement, the people on the westside pay taxes too. Why aren't services available in their community?

Pendergast said he is willing to work with the hospital and the community to bring a solution to the problem. He indicated he was opened to re-think this.

As you may have read in the newspaper or heard on the radio and television, our parent company and the parent company of San Diego Gas & Electric will be merging.

Here at Southern California Gas Company, this is exciting news both for us and for our customers, because this is a friendly merger, which is what happens when two companies join forces willingly and for the better. And even though it seems like we're changing, we'll keep on providing you the safe, reliable service you know so well.

Some things will change. In the future, we'll be bringing you a wider array of energy services and achieving greater efficiencies that will result in even more competitive rates.

But other things won't ever change. After all, our roots are here. And they run as deep as our commitment to our customers and the communities we've served for over 100 years.

No one needs to tell you how fast the world is changing. Or how difficult it can seem to maintain the values that are important to you. The same is true at The Gas Company. Although our business is rapidly changing everyday, we remain committed to providing each and every one of our customers with safe, reliable service at the lowest competitive rates.

We're proud to say that our association with San Diego Gas & Electric goes a long way in helping us continue doing what we do best.

And to remain committed and involved in the communities where we have the privilege to work and live.

Glad to be of service.

"ON NOV. 5TH, WE'RE VOTING FOR OURSELVES."

Good move. And that means voting for Democrats.

If you don't think there's a difference between Democrats and the Newt Gingrich Republicans, think about who's been there, fighting against the Republicans who, if given the chance, will continue to cut, slash and block the progress we've made. They're against direct Student Loans, Affirmative Action and increasing the minimum wage.

You have the power to stop them.

The Democratic Party is there, fighting for the things that are important to young people and families.
• Unemployment in the Black community is at a twenty-year low • More than 10 million new jobs
• Increased the minimum wage • Increased funding for Historically Black Colleges • Made

Student Loans for college more affordable • Record number of African-American businesses • Provided Tax Relief for 15 million working families.

Democrats are dealing with the hard issues. But they can't continue to do it without your vote.

On Nov. 5th, vote for the people who care about you.

VOTE DEMOCRATIC 96

IT'S TOO IMPORTANT NOT TO.

Riverside Chamber of Commerce Opposes Prop. 209

Art Pick, President Riverside Chamber of Commerce

At the September board meeting the Board of Directors of the Greater Riverside Chambers of Commerce adopted a resolution opposing ballot Proposition 209, the California Civil Rights Initiative (CCRI), which would end affirmative action. Board chair Debbi Guthrie, Roy O. Huffman Roof Co., said she was proud of the board's action, which continues the Riverside Chamber's leadership role in efforts to improve the quality of life for all members of the community.

In proposing the resolution, past board chairman Dave Willmon, Inland Graphics, said, "It is one of the rules of government, in making public policy, that you must consider not only what it accomplishes, but also what it replaces. One of my objections to 209 is that it strips away programs without addressing how the problems will be addressed in the future."

Discussion of the complex issues associated with the proposition included concerns about the awarding of government contracts, and comments that some current affirmative action programs need to be reformed. Several speakers indicated that they felt Prop. 209 was not the proper vehicle for that reform.

Board member Dr.

Lawrence Geraty, La Sierra University president, spoke in favor of continuing special programs encouraging minorities and women. Geraty said, "While we've made a great deal of progress, we're not where we need to be. Most of us can afford to wait a little longer while some people catch up."

A strong majority of the board voted to oppose Prop. 209, with 26 members endorsing the resolution, 2 opposed, and 2

College District Hires Distance Learning Expert, College Faculty

A new distance education director and two college faculty members have joined the ranks of San Bernardino Community College District. The hiring of M. Jacquelyn (Jaci) Ward at the helm of distance learning is in keeping with recent, district wide efforts to incorporate such high tech innovations as on-line classes at its two colleges.

Ward brings more than 20 years experience in instructional television, interactive microwave and videotape delivery systems and the promise of activating ITFS (Instructional Television Fixed Service) to the district. She joined SBCCD from Cal State, Bakersfield, where she was the program coordinator for the university's instructional TV network for eight years.

The faculty members, who were hired for the Valley College campus, are James S. Robinson, instructor in the Human Services Department, and James W. Banks, who has joined the Athletic Department for a year as the interim athletic counselor.

Ward is responsible for overseeing the districts Telecourses, which allow stay-at-home students to study such subjects as Cultural Anthropology and Child Growth & Development by watching television. She is responsible for the recently added on-line courses.

Those allow students to study via home computer and interact with instructors via e-mail. On-line courses already in place are general Psychology, taught by Crafton Hills College's T. L. Brink; World Religions, taught by Valley's Julius "Jack" Jackson, and Basic Physics, taught by Valley's Robert Wilson.

Ward's duties extend to administration of off-campus courses in the communities of Big Bear and Needles and the handling of interagency responsibilities for distance education as the district's representative to the Southern California Intelecom Consortium.

In the past, Ward directed the ITFS Extension Center at Cal State, Los Angeles. She supervised the live broadcast and videotape operations for Stanford University's Instructional TV Network for six years, responsible for its simulcast to about 125 member companies in Europe, Japan and throughout the United States with microwave and videotape delivery. She was a long-term consultant for UC San Francisco's School of Nursing to prepare for distance learning in the form of interactive two-way video, and for the Institute for Technology Development of Jackson, Miss., when it initiated interactive video projects. That start-up project attracted some $2 million in venture capital towards development of a subsidiary firm.

Ward serves on the board of directors of the Alliance for Distance Education in California. She is a member of the American Association of University Women, the National ITFS Association and the American Educational Research Association.

She holds a master's degree in communications management from USC's Annenberg School of Communications and a bachelor's degree in radio, TV and film production from the University of Southern Mississippi. She is continuing studies toward a Ph.D. in education at USC. A faculty handbook she wrote, "Effective Teaching Using Distant Learning Technologies," is in its second edition.

Human Services instructor Robinson was formerly a group counselor and institution training officer for the San Bernardino County Probation Department. There, in 1990, he was recognized for his outstanding professional performance. Robinson has a master's degree in public administration from Golden Gate University and a bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of Maryland at College Park.

Banks joined the Valley College Athletic Department on an interim basis while Carl Ferrill is on a year's leave. Banks is providing academic counseling for students involved in college sports and working closely with high school counselors who are preparing students for college.

He formerly was a clinical consultant for the Inland AIDS Project and directed the development of a city plan to suppress gang activities in Riverside. During 1994-95, he was the program manager for the Institute of Black Parenting, a foster family agency, in Riverside. He was a lecturer at Cal State, San Bernardino, and the associate director of education, health and behavioral science dealing with pre college age students at UC Irvine.

He has a master's degree in Afro American studies and a bachelor's degree in English, both from the University of Wisconsin.

Bombs, Drugs, and Guns Recovered

Riverside -- Riverside Police arrested 37 year old Gregory Wilburn of Phelan after finding a handgun, an assault rifle, two pipe bombs and approximately one-quarter pound of methamphetamine in his possession.

At approximately 6.00 p.m. Officer Dave Smith stopped Wilburn in a 1976 Chevy Blazer near the intersection of the 215 Freeway and Third Street. He stopped the vehicle because it had a broken taillight. Officer Smith arrested Wilburn after finding a loaded 25 caliber semi automatic handgun concealed in his pants pocket. Subsequent to the arrest Officer Smith searched the vehicle and located a loaded 30 caliber M-1 carbine assault rifle near the driver's seat. Several loaded magazines were found nearby. He also located about one-quarter pound of methamphetamine with an estimated street value of $10,000, and two metal flashlights that had been converted into pipe-bombs.

Wilburn is facing charges of Possession of a Controlled Substance for Sales, Transportation of a Controlled Substance, Ex-Felon in Possession of a Firearm, and Possession and Transportation of an Explosive Device. Thirty-three year old Tammy Peterson of Victorville was a passenger in the vehicle. She was arrested for possession of methamphetamine and various misdemeanor warrants. Both suspects were booked into Riverside County Jail.

The Riverside County Sheriff's Department Bomb Squad responded and took possession of the two devices. They were in route to another call for service, so these devices will be analyzed and destroyed at a later date.
